

Innocence like a little child, as you were in the beginning before you ever created and incarnated into this dimension of experience.

To look upon your perceptions, feelings, behavior, exactly as they are, without overshadowing them with your own interpretations, embracing them with innocence and non judgment.

The innocent need not fear.

The innocent heart is not needy. It doesn't require selected individuals to agree with it. It doesn't wait until the Universe nods its head in approval. It merely knows it is innocent and acts from it, and is not attached to the opinions of the world.